Kelowna Turnout 'Light' So Far In B.C. Election

Turnout in today's provincial election has been termed "light" at the city's two main polling areas by returning officer Otto Leboe.

The South Kelowna and North Kelowna polling stations are situated inside the Kelowna Secondary School. Mr. Leboe said part of the problem causing the light voter turnout could be parking problems around the school.

Chief returning officer Harvey Wilson had predicted a heavy vote in the election because of such a large advance poll vote. Voting will continue until 8 p.m.

The polling station at Rutland Centennial Hall recorded an attendance of 1,500 to 11:45 a.m. today out of a total of 6,714 eligible voters in the area.

Deputy returning officer, Mrs. Mary Weddell, said no votes had been cast at the residence polling station of James Weddell, on Joe Rich Road today, and attributed the lack to a listing error. Presumably, most Joe Rich region residents were casting ballots at the Rutland Centennial Hall location.

At the Raymer Avenue school polling station, voting was described by one official as "just right." Asked what this meant, she replied: "They're coming fast enough to keep us from being bored, but not fast enough to get us all 'hot' up."

In Victoria it was estimated one million British Columbians vote today in a provincial election widely expected to preface the final chapter in the amazing political career of 71-year-old William Andrew Cecil Bennett.

Win, lose or draw, this is probably the last time the self-made millionaire from Kelowna will fight an election as leader of the Social Credit party he has marched to victory seven times since 1952.

His retirement between now and the next election is a matter of open discussion even within his own party. And if David Barrett's New Democrats, David Anderson's Liberals or Derrill Warren's Progressives come out on top today, that retirement could come faster than anyone anticipated.

Standings in the 55-member legislature at dissolution: Social Credit 36, NDP 12, Liberals five, Conservatives two. Standings following the Aug. 27, 1969, election: Social Credit 38, NDP 12, Liberals five.

The spectre hanging over this election—with four parties in the running—is that of a minority government. Social Credit or NDP, after the votes are counted tonight.

Premier Bennett himself led the province's last minority administration for a few months after Social Credit smashed the Liberals and Conservatives at the polls in the 1952 election. After being defeated in a house vote, Mr. Bennett went back to the voters in 1953 and obtained the majority mandate Social Credit has held since.

Chess Game Drawn
REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) — The 20th game in the world chess championship ended in a draw Wednesday night after 54 moves.

American Bobby Fischer needs only one more point to take the title from Boris Spassky. The challenger has 11½ points to the Russian titleholder's 8½.

Credit has hung on to ever since.

It was Mr. Warren, a 33-year-old Vancouver lawyer, who raised the possibility of a minority government by charging into the election at the head of a slate of 49 candidates. Only one Tory ran in 1969.

The Bennett leadership was the only major issue to emerge from a 35-day campaign marked by confusing crosscurrents of non-issues, low-profile leadership, heavy advertising and escalating problems for Social Credit, mainly of its own making.

After calling the election July 24, Premier Bennett simply dropped out of sight for the first month of the campaign, announcing he would stump the hustings without benefit of a publicized itinerary or the usual entourage of reporters and cameramen.

The Social Credit leader resurfaced now and then to drop a few election bombs, then vanished again. He came up for good during the final week of the campaign in the Greater Vancouver area to blast "the socialist hordes at the gates of British Columbia."

In the final few days of the campaign, no fewer than three members of Mr. Bennett's cabinet announced they would be leadership candidates when the premier steps down voluntarily.

They are: Rehabilitation Minister P. A. (Flying Phil) Gallagher, 59, of Kamloops; Resources Minister Ray Williston, 58, of Fort George; and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, 46, of Comox.

The premier has said repeatedly there is a "no vacancy" sign in his office, but he failed to stifle the flood of leadership candidacy announcements emanating from his ministers, or speculation about his retirement plans from Social Credit backbenchers.

The opposition parties gleefully shouted that there was a leadership battle going on in the midst of an election campaign, "the old man" was losing his grip on the party, the voters were trying to cut down Mr. Bennett during his last hurrah.

Predictably, it was Mr. Gallagher, the pint-sized Pentecostal preacher from Kamloops, who found himself in the hotseat in the final week of the campaign as the leadership issue exploded into public view.

The former highways minister was quoted in a Toronto Star interview that found his way in part into B.C. newspapers as attacking Mr. Bennett's leadership. He denied it and has filed suit for libel.

Mr. Bennett said he believed Mr. Gallagher was telling the truth, but warned that his minister must win his case in court or there will be a vacancy in the cabinet.

This kind of infighting in the camp of his enemies has delighted Mr. Barrett, 41-year-old former social worker who has walked softly during the campaign, wielding a big organization stick in Social Credit's interior heartland.

Mr. Barrett is a political brawler who has headed the party since shortly after the 1969 election. He nailed down leadership after plunk in the NDP platform, paying scant attention to Mr. Bennett's polemics about the socialist invasion.

LIBERALS HAD HOPES
Local organizers had hoped for much more of a mud-slinging duel between the two major protagonists that would have allowed Mr. Anderson to come across as a sort of reasonable, thinking man's alternative.

Consequently the 35-year-old former MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, who took over as provincial liberal leader from Dr. Pat McGee in May, has complained bitterly about the lack of interest in the issues.

The Liberals and Mr. Warren's resurgent Conservatives are locked in a struggle to determine which party will emerge as what their leaders both describe as "the free enterprise alternative to Social Credit."

Mr. Warren is trying out techniques he learned the knee of Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed, the Conservative leader who knocked off Social Credit in an election in the prairie province one year ago today. Mr. Warren was a member of Mr. Lougheed's Calgary law firm during the Tory rebuilding process in Alberta.

CHICAGO CHASE Police Free 5 Hostages

CHICAGO (Reuters) — Two of three gunmen who held up a restaurant, terrorized staff and took five women hostages were killed by police early today after a wild two-hour high-speed chase along Chicago's expressways.

The third gunman was captured after a gun battle climaxing the chase between police and trio of bandits on Chicago's south side. Two policemen were slightly injured by shotgun pellets when one of the gunmen opened fire on a pursuing police vehicle.

The terrified hostages, threatened with death and used as shields by the gunmen, were forced into a car, which police provided as a getaway vehicle on the bandits' orders.

Scores of police squad cars and a helicopter tracked the fleeing gunmen and their hostages as their car raced through darkened streets and alleys.

Warned by the gunmen that the hostages would be killed if any of the pursuers closed in, the chase quickly developed into a tense, deadly battle of wits with police commanders repeatedly ordering their men to keep their distance to preserve the captives' lives.

The drama began at a luxury Japanese restaurant on North Clark Street late Tuesday night when the gun-toting men burst in to hold 14 patrons and staff at gunpoint for nearly an hour, then herded five women hostages into a getaway car supplied on the gunmen's orders.

The chase ended in a gunfight on South State Street when one of the gunmen—identified as Mike Jones, 17—was killed by a police bullet through the head and his companion wounded.

Denial Made
By McKeough
CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough today declined comment on alleged conflict of interest.

Mr. McKeough is at his Chatham home for a brief holiday and plans to remain here until Monday, when he will join other members of the legislature for a railway tour of Northern Ontario.

Although he declined to make a statement today, he said he may say something in two or three days.

The treasurer arrived in Toronto from Europe Tuesday and drove here immediately.

Mr. McKeough, his aides and senior government officials travelling with him, were quickly cleared through customs out of sight of the public and about 20 reporters waiting to question him about his department's approval of a subdivision plan in Chatham.

It was property in which Mr. McKeough is alleged to have had a financial interest in 1969 while minister of municipal affairs.

The treasurer was in Europe with Premier William Davis to attend the opening of the Olympic Games in Munich and to borrow money for the province from a West German bank.

Death Toll At Six In Killing Spree

NEILSON, B.C. (CP) — Charges were expected to be laid today following a shooting spree Monday in the Monashee Mountains area in which six persons died and three others were injured.

Police released the names of only four of the victims and said they planned a statement later with more details.

The suspect in the shootings was described only as a man between 35 and 40 years of age.

RCMP Staff Sergeant P. B. Payne, who headed the investigation, said all the bodies had been recovered.

He said the suspect had a number of guns and ballistics tests would have to be run to see whether any were used in the shootings.

"We are not at the moment sure exactly how many weapons were involved," he said. "There are certain articles—certain pistols—which have been reported stolen. We are investigating these reports."

He said the suspect surrendered without incident at Galena Bay, about 135 miles northeast of Oliver where the shooting rampage began.

The six bodies were found in the area between Oliver and Galena Bay.

Police said the shootings began Monday about 9 a.m. when a 16-year-old boy and a 62-year-old man disappeared from the Oliver orchard where they were tending water sprinklers.

Their bodies were found Tuesday.

About 11 a.m. Monday, a man drove into a campground on Damfino Creek, Northeast of Oliver, herded two Pentecost couples into a truck and fired a fusillade of rifle shots into the vehicle at close range.

Mrs. Lester Clark was killed while her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wilson received multiple gunshot wounds.

The bodies of an elderly Rock Creek, B.C., couple were found later at Edgewood. Police said their car had been commandeered at Rock Creek, southeast of Oliver.

'The Syndicate' Gaining Power

QUEBEC (CP) — Organized crime has infiltrated all levels of society including government and police, Maurice Saint-Pierre, director of the provincial police, said Wednesday.

Mr. Saint-Pierre spoke to reporters after presenting the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police with the report of their organized crime committee.

After the closed meeting he told reporters:

"We have found that organized crime has tried to infiltrate at the level of administration, be it business, be it newspapers, be it police, be it governments, be it municipal or civic authorities."

They have tried and they will try, not always with success, but sometimes with success.

"This is where they would see fit to have somebody in position to know exactly what goes on so they can get on with their business as organized crime."

He refused to say where organized crime has successfully infiltrated.

Mr. Saint-Pierre's report said new police techniques involving inter-force co-operation show promise in dealing with organized crime.

"Before the 1970s, organized crime posed a challenge and this challenge was met individually by the various police forces with not too much success."

"Now, the same challenge is made, but this time the challenge is taken up by a well-armed and united police front and already efforts have been crowned by success."

Mr. Saint-Pierre said in the report gambling, loan-sharking and pornography remain in the forefront of organized crime activities. Current trends were towards real estate, fraudulent building schemes and infiltration or takeover of financial institutions.

Organized crime also was becoming more involved in the distribution of hard drugs and "known criminal figures were exercising influence and control over unions in connection with construction of large building complexes, other projects and enterprises."

Protection rackets between junkie operations and loan-sharking which is widespread in many other activities," the report said.

"There have been several incidents in the recent past where U.S. subjects of questionable background have attempted to establish companies in the Maritimes."

In British Columbia, there were indications that eastern Canadian criminals were pulling off major robberies. The report mentioned the $327,000 robbery at Vancouver General Hospital with a Montreal gang involved and a $115,000 bank robbery in Burnaby with an other eastern Canadian gang involved.

The report also said organized crime is organizing gambling junkies to European and other spots where gambling is legal.

"There have even been reported incidents of 'enforcers' coming to Canada from Las Vegas to make collections; this shows the close connection between

Re-Call Of Parliament Boosts Chances Of Fall Federal Poll

OTTAWA (CP) — The chances for a fall election were increased Tuesday by Prime Minister Trudeau's decision to recall Parliament Thursday for an emergency session to deal with the British Columbia dock strike.

Mr. Trudeau's move to legislate an end to the strike should rid his government of a potentially dangerous campaign issue and clear the decks for a federal vote Oct. 30.

New Democrats and Conservatives were quick to offer support for a parliamentary remedy to the dock strike, despite adverse reaction to the move by the men actually involved in the dispute. Union and management spokesmen condemned the government for interfering.

The prime minister has long been expected to announce an Oct. 30 election, but the legal strike of longshoremen in Vancouver and other West Coast ports has halted shipment of Pacific grain to Asian buyers, a serious concern to Western voters.

About 50 million bushels of Western grain—mostly wheat—has piled up since the strike began August 7, with 10 Chinese, 10 Japanese and three other ships waiting to load.

PLANES PROVIDED
MPs will return to an emergency sitting Thursday, many on hastily-dispatched defence department aircraft.

HOMEWARD BOUND-TO VOTE

Bryon and Mary Anne Wright of Vancouver enjoy a hearty breakfast outside their tent-trailer at a Lakeshore Road resort shortly before leaving for their home town today. The Wrights, who spent the past week in the Kelowna area, are among the season's last visitors and had just weathered the storm of wind and rain during the night. However, up to then, the weather had been exceptionally good for their stay "and the tent made it through the night." The couple planned to arrive in Vancouver today in time to vote in the provincial election.

Hostel Officials Ready For Labor Day Weekend

Judy Findlater, a supervisor at Kelowna youth hostel, estimated about 60 youths a night would probably be staying at the hostel during the long weekend.

Se said the number of youths staying at the hostel is decreasing, as most of them are students and must register by Sept. 1. The hostel will remain open during the long weekend, and close Sept. 3.

Presently, the staff is completing its final report to the federal government, although periodic reports are made throughout the time the hostel has been in operation.

Youths have been working on improving the hostel site by scraping off the old paint on the two buildings and repainting them. Miss Findlater said the paint job is almost complete.

With six hostel directors on the committee gone or soon leaving, new directors will be chosen in a general meeting in early fall. The problem of travellers bringing pets into the hostel was quickly checked with strongly enforced rules of no pets. The crowds situation made it impossible for the youths to allow their pets to remain inside the hostel.

Tents were erected, with the permission of the health department, to help compensate the lack of accommodation for the overflow crowds. At one time, Aug. 4, the number of youths staying at the hostel for one night was as high as 128.

Rev. Bernie Black, one of the committee members, said because of the overcrowding, the hostel was understaffed. It was funded for only four supervisors.

The last of a series of federal grants to youth hostels and information centres was announced in Ottawa July 22. Kelowna Hostel Service received a total of $5,560 to operate a hostel and information centre. The hostel drew a $1,660 grant, while the information centre was given a $200 grant.

The Secretary of State's Department spent a total of $823,000 on 122 hostels across the country. That spending was only part of an $85 million package of employment and activities programs for youth, sponsored by a variety of government departments.

4th Victim Dies Here

The fourth victim of a car-truck crash, Abraham John Peters, 72, of Chilliwack, died Tuesday in Kelowna General Hospital. The accident occurred Thursday on Highway 97, one mile south of Kelowna.

Three other persons involved in the accident were dead on arrival at Kelowna General Hospital. Killed were Elizabeth Peters, wife of the driver; Margaret Axt, 73; and Agatha Brault, 78, all of Chilliwack.

The driver of the truck involved in the accident, Raymond Budinsky, of Vernon, was not injured.

Police said the vehicle in which the four victims were passengers was apparently proceeding south on Highway 97 toward Westbank when it and a soft drink truck collided. The truck was proceeding toward Kelowna.

... Sunny

The weatherman promises sunny skies and warmer temperatures to cogitate election results Thursday. Highs will be in the mid 80s. High and low in the city Tuesday was a pleasant 89 and 57 degrees with a trace of rain, compared to 89 and 48 degrees with a trace of rain for the same day at the airport. Overnight lows today will be in the 40s or 50s.

FINISHING TOUCHES

Work is nearing completion on the new laboratory facilities at Kelowna General Hospital and here, Alfred Glenner and Robin Kelbert put the finishing touches on some shelving in the new facility, scheduled for completion Sept. 15. The new lab is part of a $1.7 million project at KGH, which also includes renovations to the old hospital building. According to hospital administrator Charles Lavery, target date for completion of the overall project is Jan. 31 of next year. Mr. Lavery said it will be some time before hospital staff are able to move into the new laboratory once the building is completed, as there are "other factors" involved, including the installation of equipment designed to improve the area's diagnostic capabilities. (Courier Photo)

NEW HORIZONS

Sounds Like A Good Idea, But...

Last month, health and welfare minister, John Monro, announced a program called New Horizons, set up to provide funds for projects by senior citizens across the country.

At the time, the minister pointed out the program was not to be confused with the job-creating Opportunities for Youth or Local Initiatives programs, but "to stimulate and support the creative participation of retired Canadians."

Just how "stimulated" Kelowna's senior citizens have been since the announcement was made, isn't too clear, but evidently there hasn't been a flood of applications. The reason: nobody seems to know anything about the program.

According to Mrs. Dorothy Rigate, secretary of Kelowna and District Retirement Services (KDRS), that group has not received any more information on the program than that contained in initial reports of the announcement.

She pointed out KDRS has been inactive all summer and when the group meets again in October, the New Horizons program "will probably be discussed... but we'll definitely have to have more details."

Brian Vandale, president of Kelowna's Social Planning Council, said, "The only information we have has come from a couple of news blurbs. I know there will be interest, but we'll have to look at the framework before seeing how the program can be utilized as far as we're concerned."

Since there is no health and welfare office in Kelowna, a logical alternative for enquiries is Canada Manpower and sure enough, Manpower was able to supply the Courier with a copy of Mr. Monro's announcement—and a rather long-winded address.

The address is New Horizons, Developmental Programs Branch, Department of National Health and Welfare, Tunney's Pasture, Ottawa KIAOK-9, Ontario.

Manpower counsellor, Laura

Lee Miller, said her office has received one enquiry on the program, adding, "I think there is a fair amount of interest. I was questioned about it at a recent seminar on aging, but I was able to give out only as much information as there was in the news release."

The program is to be operated on a regional basis, with eight offices established to serve B.C., Alberta, Yukon and the Northwest Territories; Saskatchewan and Manitoba; Ontario; Quebec; New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island; Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Kelowna's senior Manpower counsellor, Dean Malone, said that to his knowledge, these regional aid offices have not yet been set up.

As outlined by Mr. Monro, the program will provide funds to projects designed by a group, normally at least 10, of retired persons and each approved project will be funded for an initial 18 months, with more money to be provided "in special circumstances" for an additional 18 months.

Among provinces, funds will be distributed on a percentage of the total number of retired people in Canada who live in each province and in both rural and urban areas, distribution of the retired population will generally be followed.

Funds will not be provided through the New Horizons program for projects developed by a federal, provincial municipal government department or agency, for projects designed to be profit-making for those participating; for wages for those participating or for capital construction costs.

Apparently no date has been set for the commencement of the program, but in making the announcement, Mr. Monro said that during the summer, representatives would travel across the country "for further talks with provincial governments, as well as with agency representatives," adding that he would also be involved in the discussions.

SEEN and HEARD

A visitor to Kelowna can tell you what it is like to be "shot at and missed." While enjoying a scenic tour of the city with his Kelowna hostess, Row Hinks of Mitchell, Ont., admired the lovely greenery at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club as they drove along Glenmore Drive. A loud, sharp ping on the passenger side window startled the group, which discovered a golf ball had been the "secret weapon." If the window had been rolled down two inches lower the missile would have struck the visitor on the right temple—too close for comfort, they thought.

Kelowna-area residents who have mailed surface parcel post to Great Britain and Northern Ireland since early July should take note that delays may result as a result of the British dock strike. Surface parcels aboard vessels enroute when the strike began are just now being unloaded and it is expected to take several weeks to restore normal service. Surface mail for classes other than parcel has not been affected, as it was given airtail service on a space-available basis.

The order of candidates on the ballot in today's provincial election is not as one would expect it. Normally, the candidates are listed on the ballot in alphabetical order but this time around the candidates appear in the order of party standings at the dissolution of provincial parliament. The candidates appear this way: Social Credit, NDP, Liberal and Conservative.

The regular meeting of the Okanagan Basin Water Board will be held Sept. 7 at the offices of the Regional District of Central Okanagan, 540 Groves Ave.

Chest Goal $56 Million

Community Chest campaigns in Canada this year will have a $56 million target to shoot for, an increase of $3 million over collected funds of $53 million in 1971.

Individual campaigns in 161 communities across the nation last year collected the sum for distribution to 2,400 volunteer agencies which constitute 90 per cent of United Appeal requirements.

Last year, the local Community Chest committee under John Dyck, exceeded its $69,000 goal, raising some $71,000 to win the Okanagan challenge trophy for the third consecutive year. The trophy constitutes campaign rivalry between Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon.

A spokesman for the local committee said today this year's goal was still unknown, adding the 1972 residential blitz has been scheduled for Oct. 2, with the industrial, commercial and employee drive set for September.

The identity of this year's campaign chairman will be announced later.

Sales Firm Hit By Fire

Fire about 1 a.m. today, caused extensive damage to Okanagan White Truck Sales (1972) Ltd., at Reid's Corner.

Manager Gordon Finch said the fire apparently resulted from an electrical problem in the basement. The blaze burned a hole in the floor of an upper front office and also caused considerable damage upstairs.

"We would not have a building left except for the efficiency of the Rutland Fire Department," he said. "I don't know how they kept the whole building from burning." A section of the rear of the building used for repairing trucks was not damaged.

Unofficial estimates place the damage at about $25,000. But the figure was not confirmed by Mr. Finch today.

'A Big Increase' In Pupil Numbers

Fred Macklin, secretary-treasurer of School District 23 (Central Okanagan) gave a projected figure of 550 to 600 as the number of new students in the school district. He said the total picture "could show a big increase," however, the figures don't take into consideration those students who may not return to their respective schools for varied reasons.

Although shifts will not be in effect this year, a problem the school district is running into is busing, Mr. Macklin said. He added a large percentage of the new students will be bus students.

Two of the buses used last year will be used for "taxi" service for retarded persons he said, adding buses last year had standing room only.

The three month construction lockout hasn't helped with the crowded situation, although Mr. Macklin said he hopes the problem will be solved around Christmas.

The buildings affected are eight sites in the Kelowna-Rutland area, two in Westbank and one in Lakeview.

Lack of teachers will be no problem, as the school district was staffed since the beginning of June. Mr. Macklin said the school board receives from 1,800 to 2,000 applications every year, adding they have a turnover of about 90 teachers, including new ones. Mr. Macklin added the school board has been reducing the teacher-student ratio every year.

"We're ready for the word go," he concluded. Meanwhile registration for vacation-happy elementary students continues today from 2 to 4 p.m. at the nearest school as listed below.

A. A. Matheson, Grades 1 to 7, pupils from Benvoulin district register here also; Bank-

Work Of Well-Known Artist To Be Auctioned In Kelowna

Former Okanagan resident, and well-travelled artist Zeljko Kujundzic, will auction $15,000 worth of his work Sept. 3 in Kelowna.

Making his first return to his former home in Okanagan Mission in two years, Mr. Kujundzic is now an art professor at the Fayette Campus of Penn State University.

Born in Yugoslavia, he received his early training in that country and studied in Venice and at the Institute of Fine Arts in Budapest. During World War II, he worked with the underground and was a prisoner of both the Germans and the Russians.

After the war, he spent 10 years teaching at Edinburgh University in Scotland and in 1958 established the provincial school of art in B.C. His works have been displayed in many countries and his most recent exhibition was in Taos, New Mexico.

Unwilling to accept the restriction of classification, Mr. Kujundzic works in all materials at his disposal—metal, clay, wood and canvas—demonstrating superb craftsmanship and a deep affinity with each.

The Kelowna auction will include paintings, sculpture and prints.

His sculpture and metal work have been commissioned by the University of British Columbia, by the Nelson and Cranbrook city councils and by the Canadian government for the Pavilion of Fine Crafts at Expo '67.

FASCINATING BUSINESS OF WORK

The fascinating business of work engrosses eight-year-old John Greentree as he plays sidewalk foreman to a construction crew working on Pandosy Street. While workers do street repairs along the street part of the city's Pan-dosy Street improvement plan) John leans on a barricade pondering on the quality and progress of the job. The fascination in construction by children the world over hasn't changed in spite of our sophisticated age. There is no doubt where ever you find a construction job you will also find children who, without moving a muscle, are concentrating as hard as anybody on the site.

Could Cut Jobless Rate If 'Moonlighters' Quit

A special employment survey shows that the unemployment rate—now running more than six per cent of the labor force—would be cut to 3.3 per cent of the labor force if moonlighters gave up their second jobs for the jobless.

The survey, conducted by Statistics Canada in June, found that 260,000 of the 8.58 million workers who were employed held two or more jobs.

Multiple jobholding—Statistics Canada's term for moonlighting—showed an increase between March, 1971, and June this year. In the earlier survey, 2.8 per cent of employed people reported they had more than one job. The latest survey found three per cent of the employed people had more than one job.

In June, the total labor force was nearly 9.15 million, and there were 568,000 unemployed—an unemployment rate of 6.2 per cent. If the 260,000 workers who held more than one job gave one of them over to an unemployed person, unemployment would have been cut to 308,000, or 3.3 per cent.

This, of course, involves a statistical assumption, and it is probably not true that all those who were moonlighting in June had second or third jobs merely because they liked extra work to fill in their spare time.

There is evidence that the moonlighters held more than one job because they needed the extra money, either because their principal employment was lowly paid or because of heavy family responsibilities.

Statistics Canada reported that moonlighting was highest among married persons, men, the self-employed, agricultural workers, persons between the ages of 35 and 44, and people living in the Prairie provinces.

Five per cent of farm workers held more than one job. In the service and recreational industries, 3.5 per cent of the workers moonlighted, and 3.4 per cent of laborers and unskilled workers were multiple jobholders.

Moonlighting also was more common among government employees—3.6 per cent of them had second or more jobs.

Statistics Canada's special surveys of multiple jobholding have been taken six times in the last 12 years, but not at regular intervals. No survey was taken between July, 1961, and June, 1967, and during that period—unemployment fell to the lowest rates in a decade.

Furthermore, the nature of the questions asked in the surveys has not been consistent, so that comparisons between the results of one survey and another cannot be properly compared.

There does appear to be a relationship, however, between the time of year and the incidence of multiple jobholding. In three surveys conducted in 1971, it was found that the number of moonlighters among the employed labor force fell from 2.7 per cent in January to 2.5 per cent in April and 2.2 per cent in July.

Great Food Price Scandal

(Vancouver Sun)

Now we are famous—or notorious. Vancouver has won top place on the North American continent as runaway leader in the great food prices scandal.

It is confirmed by the assiduous research of the continent's newspaper food editors. Immediate reactions from the food merchandisers are the same excuses on which we've been gorging for years—wages, freight rates, shortages, "special" conditions.

Strangely, the comparative shopping on which the surveys were based was done on June 29, shortly before the Canadian food industry began telling us that we would have to put up with "disturbingly high levels" this fall. But prices, of course, had already reached those levels. And since the surveys Vancouver has been favored with further substantial increases in the prices of staple groceries such as milk and meat.

The great food price scandal also escaped the notice of the politicians early in the summer. At the end of July, federal Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras was lading out reassurances that food price increases had been only "moderate." If they became "disturbing" then they should be investigated, he said, although he wouldn't want to comment on anything until such investigations were made.

Confronted with the evidence of the surveys, Mr. Andras is nonplussed. He suggests the reason for high prices is shortages. If so, why are food shortages greater in Vancouver than Toronto, Montreal, Des Moines, San Diego, and all major points in between? And how does he explain government-supported surpluses in dairy products and the concern of provincial governments about dumping eggs and poultry?

Mr. Andras said in July that the government might impose wage-price controls or seek voluntary restraints. Now he shies away from such talk. Controlling the price of Brazilian coffee, he says, would merely mean no more Brazilian coffee. Does the same fate apply to B.C. and Alberta beef? Or eggs? Or milk?

When a 32-item shopping list costs twice as much in Vancouver today as it did in 1961 the situation has become disturbing. When Vancouver groceries are the most expensive on the continent Ottawa should be doing more than blaming the weather.

Immediate intervention might at least halt the spiral pending thorough and serious investigation into the causes.

It has been previously shown that while the July advance in food prices was 4.1 per cent nationwide, the overall climb in the price index for that month stood at 1.2 per cent, which meant an annual rate, if the pace was maintained, of 14.4 per cent.

These statistics are alarming to the economist—but to all of low incomes, to the old age pensioner and others whose incomes are fixed, with nothing to hope from the collective bargaining table, they mean deprivation, pure and simple.

Eventually, if this momentum in price escalation continues, any government will be compelled to put in direct controls. This is something the Nixon administration in the United States has felt compelled to do. Its system, despite its manifold faults, has proved more effective than any believed it would.

No-Fault Insurance Plan Works In Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP) — After one year, Massachusetts' no-fault automobile insurance law, the first in the U.S., has resulted in stabilized premiums for motorists and a savings of millions of paperwork and $40 million for the insurance industry.

The final report on the 1971 no-fault experience in Massachusetts shows that there were 50,000 fewer claims filed under the injury insurance category than in 1970, the last year before no-fault. That is a reduction of 37 per cent.

At the same time, rate reductions for injury insurance coverage have amounted to 42 per cent for motorists with minimum coverage and the state supreme court has upheld an insurance commission order providing for a 27-per-cent rebate from 1971 bodily-injury rates.

For its first year, which began Jan. 1, 1971, the no-fault concept in Massachusetts applied only to compulsory bodily injury insurance liability coverage to pay for bodily injuries caused by automobile wrecks. This year no-fault was extended to collision and property damage insurance.

Premiums for collision and property damage have continued to rise, largely to keep pace with inflation, but the reductions in the bodily injury section have served to more than offset any other increases.

PREMIUMS STILL HIGH

The result for motorists in Massachusetts is that auto insurance premiums remain high—an under-25 couple in Boston with a new, medium-priced car will pay up to $1,000 a year and more—but there has been some relief from previous skyrocketing rates and claims are settled faster.

No-fault, as applied to compulsory injury insurance in Massachusetts, prohibits claims for "pain and suffering" unless actual medical expenses total more than $500.

The law also requires out-of-court settlement of all claims under $2,000 without fixing blame for the accident on either party. The motorist's own insurer pays him regardless of who is at fault.

State insurance officials have attributed much of the success of the 1971 no-fault law to the elimination of what they regard as "nuisance" pain and suffering claims, unless actual medical bills demonstrate injury.

During 1970, the 135,000 bodily injury claims cost the insurance industry $90 million. The final report for 1971 indicates that the industry paid out $50 million to settle 85,000 claims.

The Dawes Plan for rearrangement of Germany's war reparations payments went into effect 48 years ago today—in 1924—at the same time as Germany set up a new currency system. The new reichsmark was fixed at 1,000-billion old worthless marks. Inflation of late 1923 nearly ruined the country and wiped out thousands of bank accounts as the government printed paper money by the bushel to try to meet needs. A newspaper cost 200-billion marks, which by pre-war values would have been $50 billion.

CANADA'S STORY

Selkirk Settlers Reached Red Deer

By BOB BOWMAN

This is the anniversary of the arrival of the first Selkirk settlers at Fort Douglas (Winnipeg) in 1812. The original party of 38 Scottish and Irish laborers had sailed from Stornoway, Scotland, the previous year but arrived at York Factory, Hudson Bay, too late to continue to Red Deer. So the Selkirk pioneers stayed at York Factory for the winter.

By the time they got to Fort Douglas on Aug. 30, 1812, there were only 16 of them. Agents of the Northwest Co. persuaded the blacksmiths to desert, while Miles Macdonell, leader of the expedition, sent others home from York Factory realizing that they would not become useful settlers.

However, the settlers did manage to add two new members to their group on the way from York Factory to Fort Douglas. They bought a bull and a cow which they named Adam and Eve.

They had to get busy as soon as they arrived because they were the advance guard for a much larger group due to arrive in 1812. If they had arrived in 1811, as planned, there would have been adequate time to build some sort of shelter for themselves and the next group, but now they were pressed for time. They had to provide food for themselves as well, but fortunately Hudson's Bay Company men and even the Nor'Westers helped them with provisions.

The second group arrived on Oct. 27 and consisted of 120 settlers from Ireland and the Hebrides.

So began the first agricultural settlement of what was to become Western Canada 58 years later. It is on the record that Miles Macdonell planted the first wheat himself on Oct. 7, covering it with a hoe.

OTHER AUGUST 30 EVENTS
1746—Force from Trois-Rivières led by Maj. R. de Vaudreuil attacked Crown Point, N.Y.

1824—Sir Howard Douglas arrived at Fredericton to be lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick.

1851—Legislative council of Vancouver Island held first session. British Columbia and Canada reached compromise on currency regulations.

Violence In Northern Ireland Results In Emigration Flood

BELFAST (Reuter) — The killing and violence in Northern Ireland is resulting in more emigration than at any time since the Great Potato Famine of the 1840s.

The sound of gunfire in the streets, bombings and murders are driving young families away in droves, mostly to Canada and Australia. More than a century ago, they headed to the United States to escape starvation.

Walter Jennings, the immigration attaché of the Canadian high commission, said 330 persons applied to his office to emigrate to Canada in July. And he believes the figure for August could be much higher.

In April, May and June the number of applications totalled 1,217—double the figure for the same period last year.

Jennings said the people applying to emigrate are highly qualified.

ARE QUALIFIED

"These are the kind of people Northern Ireland cannot afford to lose. Not only the quality, but the number of applicants continues to increase."

"Last year 1,412 people applied during the first seven months of the year. Up to the end of July the figure this year is 2,822, almost double. It's Canada's gain and Northern Ireland's loss, I'm afraid."

Northern Ireland's chronic unemployment situation has always led to a high rate of emigration. But three years of sectarian strife has sent the figures sky-rocketing.

Neither the Canadian nor the Australian high commissions breaks the applications down into religious categories. But a travel agency manager said that Protestants tend to go to Canada because so many of them were already there and Roman Catholics tend to choose either Australia or New Zealand.

Last year 8,452 citizens of 12-star filled out forms to go to Australia. This was three times the number in 1967, the last year of real peace in the North. Already in the first six months of this year there have been nearly 4,000, or 1,000 more than in the first half of last year.

AFFECTED BY BOMBS

Jennings says the emigration graph seems to be particularly sensitive to large bomb blasts which cause death and injuries to women and children.

John MacAuley, who leaves Belfast for Sydney soon with his wife and two young children, said:

"We thought about it for two months before we definitely made up our minds. A bomb that injured a member of my wife was what finally swung the scales in favor of Australia."

"We decided that no matter what political solution was reached eventually, our children would still grow up in an atmosphere of fear, hate and bigotry."

New Theory About Jack The Ripper Says 'He' May Have Been A Woman

LONDON (AP) — Jack the Ripper, the killer who terrorized London 84 years ago, may have been a woman.

That's the theory of former Scotland Yard detective chief superintendent Arthur Butler, who has been spending his retirement investigating the gruesome slayings of the summer of 1888.

Butler, one of the Yard's most successful murder investigators before he retired in 1968, believes the killings were carried out by a midwife turned abortionist and an assistant in an effort to keep police off the track of their illegal work.

He said some victims may have been hideously carved up to cover traces of abortions gone wrong. Others may have died because they were trying to blackmail the abortionists.

BELIEVES 7 DIED

Butler wrote in The Sun newspaper of his "year of research, of retracing the Ripper's macabre progress through the seamy streets of London's East End, and of talking to the children and grandchildren of people who lived there when the Ripper was on the rampage."

He said the total of Ripper victims was probably seven, and not five as generally accepted. The first, he said, was Emma Smith, a 45-year-old prostitute.

"Emma," Butler said, "was . . . silenced because she knew too much about the other woman's illegal activities."

"Further, I contend that four out of the six women who subsequently died . . . were not murdered at all. Their deaths . . . were almost certainly the result of bungled abortion attempts."

"By first mutilating and then dumping the already dead women, the abortionist succeeded in diverting police from an investigation which could well have led to her door."

HAD HELP

He said he believed the abortionist handled butchery on her deceased clients while an accomplice, a man, murdered others who might talk.

Criminologists, amateur and professional, have examined the Ripper killings for years trying to pin down the murderer.

Most conjecture has centre on a "mad surgeon" theory, because of an assumption that the killer had some skill with a surgical knife.

Some of the slain were disemboweled, one had her kidneys and ovaries removed. Butler's theory is the first to revolve around a woman.

Rev. R. D. Anderson Conducts Double-Ring Ceremony

A double-ring ceremony united Barbara Joan Bird of Calgary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Roger Bird of Kelowna and Douglas Wayne Hamilton, Calgary, son of Mrs. Hugh Hamilton of that city. Rev. R. D. Anderson officiated for the ceremony in immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church, Kelowna, which was decorated with white and yellow gladioli. Tex Marshall, organist played Hawaiian Wedding Song, Ave Maria and Love Me Tender.

The traditional white satin gown was the choice of the bride, given in marriage by her father. Pearl centred flowers and rhinestones trimmed the belt and the cuffs, as well as the neckline and the skirt hem of the gown, made by her mother. A short, three-tiered tulle veil mistled from a headress of organza flowers and she carried red roses and lily of the valley fashioned into a long knee-length spray.

For good luck she borrowed a blue garter and a penny in her shoe borrowed from her uncle, Clem Pirot.

Maid of honor, Aileen Denegre of Vancouver, wore a gown of flowered green with matching parasol. Bridesmaids, Annette Bird, sister of the bride, Kelowna and Heather Hamilton, sister of the groom, Calgary, wore yellow and blue flowered dresses, respectively. Daisy trim on the sleeve and bodices completed their ensembles and fresh flowers were entwined in their coiffures. They carried baskets of flowers and matching lace parasols. Flower girls were Linda and Louise O'Dell of Calgary. Ken Reeson of Calgary served as best man and ushers were Ted Yuestis of Calgary and Greg Bird, brother of the bride, Kelowna.

A long blue gown with pearl trim was worn by the bride's mother, who received the guests at the reception at the IOOF Hall. The bridegroom's mother wore a long blue and purple flowered dress. Corsages of garnet roses completed both ensembles.

HAND MADE CLOTH
A hand made table cloth, done by the bride's late grandmother, covered the bride's table and the cloth under the wedding cake, decorated by Mrs. Eric Loken, was the same one used at her mother's wedding and was made by the bride's maternal grandmother.

Sylvan Perot proposed the toast. Before leaving on a honeymoon trip to California the bride changed to a two piece wool pant suit of tangerine with brown accessories. The couple will make their home at 17th St., Calgary.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. O'Dell and daughters Linda and Louise and son Michael, Ernie Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Don Seamon, Donna Laurie and Marlow, Barb Lawristen, Sandra Smiley, Grant Hunter and Corol Lyford, all of Calgary; Winifred Gelbank, Vernon; Carole Gernock, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Doug Aggassiz and Paul, Greg and Jimmy, all of Cloverdale, B.C.; Valerie Pirot, Eileen and Sy Pirot, all of Edmonton; Don Pirot of Saskatchewan; J. C. Pirot of Cando, Sask.; Larry Gray, Burnaby; Norma Todd, Belfast, Ireland and Mr. and Mrs. A. Denegre and Erin of Kamloops.

Industries Making Steady Progress In Metric Measure Changeover

From the April edition of Standards Canada, a publication of the Canadian Standards Association, comes the news that CSA will be rewriting some 1,200 standards in metric sizes in 1972. Standards Canada reports that hospitals, together with optical and pharmaceutical industries are progressing steadily to metric usage and that considerable work has been done in the area of wood products and paper.

Indications from countries that have already converted to the metric system show the cost of conversion for industry has been much less than originally estimated. India reports one-tenth of the estimated cost and a United Kingdom firm reports that conversion costs were recovered through one export order. Others indicate the cost of changeover during the five year transition to be 0.5 per cent of the annual sales.

What is "thinking metric?" Whenever we come into contact with weights and measures, we either use measuring instruments or we use some imaginary standard measure. For the most of us, the imaginary standard measures are in round inch-pound units but it doesn't take long to replace them with metric ones.

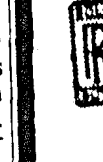

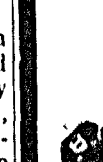

For instance, if you were asked to judge the length of a piece of lumber, you would mentally compare its length with some other standard of length that is well known to you, possibly a person's height or a yardstick.

We all have a set of these imaginary standards in our minds but what they are and in what units they are expressed is dependent on our cultural and educational backgrounds.

Most Canadians will instinctively think in feet, pounds and points, but Europeans would equally instinctively think in metres, kilograms and litres. The change in thinking in metric units is not difficult but does require some conscious effort at first. In a way, it is like learning a new language—the more you use it, the better your standard of achievement, but it's easier than a language because there are so few words.

Kelowna Couple Contribute To Foster Child In Brazil

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Davies, Moubray Road, R.R. 1, Kelowna, have adopted 11-year-old Jorge Luis Silva of Brazil.

By contributing $17 a month through Foster Parents Plan of Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Davies give the child and the family material and financial aid aimed at strengthening the family unit by helping each member. The child is symbolic of aid given to the entire family.

Before Mr. and Mrs. Davies became Jorge's foster parents, the family struggled to survive on an income of $42.00 monthly. This income is earned by Jorge's father who must work out of the area in a building company and returns home once a month. Before receiving PLAN's aid, the family's meals were meagre and lacked proper nourishment. Home for the family is a brick shack of three small rooms, situated high on a hill near a cliff.

Mr. and Mrs. Davies' contribution of $17 a month brings the family a monthly cash grant, distribution of goods such as vitamins, blankets, towels, soap and other useful items, medical and dental care, the sustained guidance and counseling of social workers and the benefit of special programs. A strong emphasis is placed on education. All foster children (and their brothers and sisters if possible) must attend school. Vocational training courses given or supported by PLAN in some countries are available to foster children, their brothers and sisters and in some cases, their parents. The aim is to give each member of the family the tools to help themselves become independent and self-supporting. Special programs adapted to the needs of each country also meet these aims.

In Brazil, for example, the incidence of intestinal parasites, which drain the nutritional value of an already-poor diet, is virtually 100 per cent. To combat this problem, PLAN distributes water filters to strain the parasitic bacteria out of drinking water, and issues shoes, towels and soap to all foster children and their families. Classes held by social workers stress the importance of hygiene and wearing shoes to prevent intestinal parasites.

Foster parents and foster children correspond monthly (letters are translated by PLAN) and often develop warm and af-

ANN LANDERS

Hubby Tolerates Iceberg With Qualities

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to the wife who was extremely affectionate to her husband was excellent. It seems he pushed her away on occasion and hurt her feelings. She wanted to know if she should turn over a new leaf and not go near him unless he indicated that he wanted her. You told her to continue to be affectionate, but to use better judgment—that perhaps her timing was poor. Then you added: "Some men are simply not able to be aggressive."

I realize the grass is always greener, but how I wish my wife would demonstrate some affection. She is a fine person, an excellent cook and housekeeper, but our love life is anemic. She will respond only if requested to do so and then she lets me know she is doing me a favor.

I have known for a long time that my wife gets nothing out of our sex life and I have suggested that we see a doctor. Her answer: "Sex is not important to me. I couldn't talk to a third party about anything so intimate."

This woman's positive traits outweigh the negative 10 to one, so I figure I can live with this. But I confess, I read that lady's letter signed "Too Much In Love" with a great deal of envy.—O. City

Dear O. City: You and hundreds of others. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: A co-worker and I are writing this letter in the hope you will settle a disagreement we are having with one of the management employees in our office.

W. A. R. is under the impression that all the letters written to you are made up by you and members of your staff. I, however, find it difficult to believe that you have the time or imagination to sit at a desk all day and make up letters.

Would you kindly print this letter and clarify the situation.—D.S.O. in Jacksonville, Florida.

Dear D.S.O.: The finest novelist in the world couldn't make up the letters you read in this column. What goes on in people's lives is far more interesting than anything I could invent.

My dilemma is not a scarcity of letters, but rather an abundance from which to choose. If, out of 1,000 letters a day, I couldn't find three worth printing, I'd turn in my typewriter.

Dear Ann Landers: I am nearly in a state of shock. For years I thought I had a pretty good speaking voice. In fact I had even considered going into radio. The other day, for the first time, I heard my voice played back on a tape recorder. It was a shocking experience. My voice is shrill and unpleasant at least it seemed so to me. Now I wonder if I sound that way to others. Do you think I am exaggerating all this in my mind? Please answer—Rusty Pipes and As a Little Ear drums

Dear Rusty and As a Little Ear drums: A shock, a shock, a shock, when he hears his own voice played back. When I first heard my voice on my daily NBC radio show I cringed at the hard, mid-western twang, but I stopped fretting about it after several listeners wrote to say it was distinctive and they liked it. No one can be totally objective about himself. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son will be coming home in a few weeks. He went four years to Stanford and after graduation took a job in Palo Alto for the summer. We paid his tuition for four years, but he lived up to his responsibilities by making good grades and staying out of trouble.

During his senior year he shared an apartment with a girl. We let him know we did not approve, but we didn't forbid it. We reasoned that a 21-year-old boy has the right to live as he pleases away from home.

Yesterday we received a letter requesting that we take the twin beds out of his room and replace them with one large bed which he is willing to pay for. He is bringing his girl home in September and is sure we will get along fine (no mention of marriage). I cannot agree to this arrangement and have told my husband so. He says the world is changing and I should get with it. True, I know our son and this girl were sleeping together in California, but somehow I can't bring myself to permit it in our house. What do you say, Ann? —Greenwich Mother

Dear Mother: I'm with you. To provide a single bed for the comfort and convenience of your son and his girl friend is tacit approval, if not encouragement of their premarital sexual activity. Stick to your principles and tell him nothing doing.

Dear Ann: I've got a touchy problem—and I do mean touchy. It's my dad. He can't keep his hands off me.

I'm the youngest in a family of five kids. My dad is forever dragging me on his lap when I watch TV, patting my backside when I'm walking past him, or kissing me hello and goodbye even if I'm just going to the grocery store.

I told Mom I didn't like it but she says, "You're his baby, be nice to him."

I don't want to hurt his feelings but I am not a baby and I wish he'd keep his hands off. Any suggestions? —Touchy Me

Dear T.M.: Personal messages are best delivered personally and not through a third party. Tell your dad how you feel about this. If you express yourself in a mature manner it might solve the problem—some what.

First Time Experiences For M.P.'s Wife Fresh Lobsters And Writing A Book

By BLANCHE HOWARD

After the mainly lovely summer in the Okanagan, it has been a bit of a blow to return to Ottawa during the time that my husband is in China with Hon. Mitchell Sharp, but I have to attend to some business regarding my forthcoming novel, and help my rather only daughter get ready for university. Not only has the summer here been colder and wetter than any summer in recent memory, but when it does warm up it gets sticky. Nobody says in Ottawa during the summer anywhere—the local people go in for summer cottages in the vast network of lakes in the area, while the other wives of members of parliament are in their ridings. And as if all that wasn't enough, I'm losing my hair.

FRENCH ATLANTIC LOBSTERS

Like most westerners, I've often heard of the glories of the fresh Atlantic lobster, but because I've never been to the Maritimes yet I didn't know if everything new said was really true. It is. Last June, before the House recessed, we were invited to the summer cottage of Bud Orange, the member from the gigantic riding of the North-West Territories, for a lobster feed. The lobsters were being supplied by Herb Breaux, who is a member from a New Brunswick riding, although everyone chipped in to help pay for them. Herb had been out in his constituency, and a good friend who is in the lobster business offered to supply him with fresh lobsters at the airport just before the plane was due to leave for Ottawa. Herb grabbed at the chance. The lobsters, freshly caught, were cooked just before take-off, and Herb, landing in Ottawa, drove more or less directly to the Oranges' cottage, which is situated about five miles out of Ottawa, and there we were, forks at the ready, awaiting his arrival. It had been a wet day, but the rain stopped, and nobody was too cold since we were bundled up in sweaters and coats, so that tables could be set up outside for the crowd of approximately 25, counting adults only, and 35 counting a large variety of kids and young people. Since most kids don't care that much for lobster, they were given their choice of that or hot dogs. Believe it or not, a good deal of lobster was saved when they opted for hot dogs.

Herb unpacked the lobsters, placed them on a chopping board, and with about three expert cracks per lobster in just the right places, opened them so that even the novices, like me, could get the fresh meat out easily. I think my exclamations drowned out all the rest. Now I'm determined to visit the Maritimes—in lobster season, of course.

The last time the prime minister had an outdoor party (before he was married) it was a disaster, mainly because it was a chilly evening in October, and he'd forgotten to tell anyone that it would be outside. This time, however, he made up for it. Just before the recess in the spring, he and Mrs. Trudeau invited the Liberal members and senators and their wives to a barbecue at Harrington Lake, which is the summer home set aside by the government for the prime minister of the day. To get to Harrington Lake, you drive out through the Gatineau Park, which is a lovely wilderness area enjoyed by the people of Ottawa, thanks to Mackenzie King who left his estate, the core area of the park, to the people of Canada.

I was surprised at how lovely Harrington Lake is, and endeared myself to the easterners by exclaiming that it was so nice it looked like a bit of British Columbia. The lake is surrounded by gentle woods, and there is a small island in the centre, behind which the sun obligingly went down in a real spectacular of colors. We'd had weeks of soggy weather, but that particular day it had cleared up and was warm. Something had apparently been done about the mosquitoes, because they have been such a plague here in the east this year that you couldn't even sit out on the balcony of our downtown high-rise. Opinion has been sharply split in Ottawa about whether it is that much better to have the birds come back after the phasing out of DDT, or whether we should have just taken our chances on pesticide poisoning. One writer to the editor even went so far as to mention darkly that during the construction of the Rideau Canal in the late 1800's, several workers had actually died of malaria.

BLANCHE HOWARD
... M.P.'s wife

In any case, they weren't too bad that night. Everyone wandered around the sloping green lawns by the large white frame house until the barbecue was ready, and then we sat at outdoor tables under canopies for barbecued beef, which the PM had brought in from western Canada. (Eastern beef is corned, and to my taste insipid compared to western beef, but it's just as expensive). While we were lined up for the beef, Mrs. Trudeau brought baby Justin around so we could all have a look at him. "Why, that baby looks just like Ron Basford!" someone exclaimed in a very loud voice, and Ron Basford turned red, which in his case is fairly spectacular. We all looked again, and I think if you've seen any pictures of bald little Justin, you'll be forced to agree that the baby does indeed resemble Ron Basford, in one respect at least.

PM IS TRIM

After the barbecue came dancing, and I'm sure you'll be happy to know that the leader of our country is in fine physical shape, being able to out-dance anyone on the floor, especially my husband who looked tired after a slow waltz. We left about 10:30 p.m. since I was catching an early plane the next morning for the west, but the PM was still going strong, although by then even Mrs. Trudeau was beginning to look a bit tired.

WRITING A BOOK

I hope you'll forgive me if I digress from my life as an M.P.'s wife and talk personally for a bit about my own endeavors. So many people have expressed interest in the fact that my first novel is about to be published in October by McClelland and Stewart, that I thought you might like to know something of the ins and outs of writing and getting published. The novel took me about a year to write, and when I put the first blank sheet of paper in my typewriter it seemed like a hopeless task to fill enough pages for a whole book. In the end, however, I wrote too much, and had to spend another three or four months re-writing and condensing it.

I sent off a summary to a couple of publishers, and when they were rejected I did extensive revising myself. A civil servant here who had at one time been a reader for McClelland and Stewart offered to read it for me, and he liked it and recommended it to them. It took seven months to make a decision—in the meantime I'd pretty well given up—but finally, last summer, it was accepted, subject to revisions and more cutting.

The original title—The Manipulator—was thrown out because of the TV program by that name, but after a year of soul-searching by me and negative response by the executive editor, it was decided to keep the name. I have only had to go to Toronto twice to discuss changes with them and have come to the conclusion that nobody in the publishing business is more than 30. Even those in the executive positions are young and glamorous or young and bearded. I've also found that long periods will elapse when nothing happens, and in spite of letters and phone calls nothing can be made to happen, although they are all invariably polite about it. Then suddenly everything has to be done immediately. The galley proofs—the rough print-out which comes from the printer for proof-reading—were supposed to come to me in April. They arrived in Penticton in July and had to be read that night and returned next day special delivery. The same thing is happening with the page proofs.

As for the date of the book's publication, that has been changed a good many times, although last time I asked they thought it would be Oct. 14th. I know better. Howard's Law states, "If one important thing happens on a certain day, everything else will happen on that day also." Therefore, no doubt about it, the book will come out on election day. I'm willing to bet on it.

FIRST COINS

Copper pennies issued privately in 1815 by Sir Isaac Coffin in the Magdalen Islands were the first, though unofficial, coins to be circulated in British Canada.

Big Airlines 'Out To Kill Us' Says Charter Firm Operator

MONTREAL (CP) — Alex Bordet, operator of Interservice Europe, said Tuesday night he believes major airlines are "out to kill" charter carriers.

Interservice Europe and the Swiss airline Belair reached a monetary impasse last week-end, stranding about 150 Canadians in Europe and about 500 European passengers in Montreal.

"The Belair thing was quite a frame-up and I'm not talking about our financial difficulties with them," Mr. Bordet said in an interview.

Balair has said it confiscated tickets for Zurich-bound travellers here 24 hours before their flight was to depart because Interservice Europe owed it money for previous flights.

Interservice Europe says it offered money to Balair and was refused.

Drunken Robbers Steal Aged Sword

DUNFERMLINE, Scotland (Reuter) — Two men on a drunken prank stole one of Scotland's most treasured relics, the battle sword of King Robert the Bruce, a court was told Monday. The two men entered the home of the Earl of Elgin, took away the five-foot sword and several other articles and hid them in the garden. The two accused admitted the theft and were fined $100 each.

DIED IN VAT

CRADOCK, South Africa (AP) — Three men were overcome by fumes and died in an empty beer vat. Police said the deaths occurred when one man cleaning the vat did not come out, another man was sent after him and then a municipal policeman was ordered in to look for the first two men.

Major airlines, persons and corporations with enormous financial and political backing are "now right out to kill. Something is frightening them they are so scared of charters," Dr. Bordet said.

SUSPECTS RETALIATION

Knowing that the charters provide cheaper transportation, the bigger airlines should come up with similar plans and give passengers the good reliable service they deserve, Mr. Bordet said.

He also suggested North American airlines are trying to retaliate.

There are a half-dozen countries in Europe that do not permit charter flights in and out, he said. Companies here feel that, if they cannot land there, why should charters from Europe land in North America.

The Canadian transport commission has authorized Air Canada and several European airlines to bring back Canadians stranded in Europe because of the air charter problems.

Air Canada, Sabena, Air France and Swissair have been given permission to make seats available on regular flights for those stranded.

About 40 passengers arrived here Sunday night from Zurich while another 80 are to arrive from Paris today.

Canada Can Learn From Others

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada can benefit from United States and Australian experiences in the question of off-shore mineral rights in a federal country, an authority on international law said Tuesday.

Maxwell Cohen, professor and former dean of law at McGill University, spoke on the topic "off-shore mineral rights considered from an international and constitutional law point of view" at a panel of the Canadian Bar Association's annual meeting.

Speakers noted with approval that the five eastern provinces and the federal government have recently been making progress regarding oil finds under the sea.

Prime Minister Trudeau indicated some weeks ago he was "not married" to the federal government's former position that revenue from undersea products should be split on a 50-50 basis.

Prof. Cohen said Quebec and the four Atlantic provinces were worried that any such undersea revenue would reduce the money they receive from the federal government in equalization payments.

A dollar-for-dollar reduction would leave the provinces much as they were before, and cause anger in the region which has long suffered economic disparity.

Prof. Cohen felt that the Atlantic provinces were entitled to a "catching up" period before any changes in equalization payments were made.

LESSONS TO LEARN

Prof. Cohen said the United States had gone to the Supreme Court to decide the question of undersea rights—the court ruling the federal government had rights from low water on—only to find it still had to work out deals with the state government regarding "adjacent" sea areas.

"The lesson of the U.S. is that even if you go to court you still need to go to negotiations," he said.

Australia, on the other hand, tried to sweep "the jurisdiction problem under the carpet" by political agreement among the federal and state governments regarding "adjacent" sea areas. This resulted in seven sets of "mirror legislation" passed by the federal government and the six states, causing administrative difficulties and considerable confusion.

"We would be wise in not taking an extreme position either way," said Prof. Cohen.

Paring Moonlighters No Way To Cut Jobless Says CLC Boss

OTTAWA (CP) — President Donald MacDonald of the Canadian Labor Congress said Tuesday it is a "gross misinterpretation" to say current jobless rates could be pared sharply if moonlighters relinquished their second jobs to the unemployed.

"Statistics Canada, a highly reputable government statistical agency, does not of course make any such absurd and naive claim," he said in a statement.

The CLC president said it was prompted by "misleading newspaper reports based on a release from Statistics Canada," claiming the current unemployment rate of more than six per cent would be sliced to 3.3 per cent if holders of more than one job gave up their extra work.

The CLC does not approve of moonlighting but "at the same time we deplore the habit of misusing statistics in an attempt to shove the unemployment problem under the rug," he said.

The Canadian Press Monday said that a special Statistics Canada survey "shows that the unemployment rate—now running more than six per cent of the labor force—would be cut to 3.3 per cent if moonlighters gave up their second jobs for the jobless."

The CP report pointed out that "this, of course, involves a statistical assumption, and it is probably not true that all those who were moonlighting in June had second or third jobs merely because they liked extra work to fill in their spare time."

It reported that the Statistics Canada survey in June found that 260,000 of the 8.58 million workers employed that month held two or more jobs. The Statistics Canada report said this was three per cent of all employed workers.

The report said "a significant factor in any labor market is the prevalence of multiple job-holdings—that is, the extent to which people hold two or more jobs at the same time."

The Statistics Canada report on what it calls "this phenomenon" in the labor market is contained in the monthly publication The Labour Force, an analysis supplementing the monthly unemployment reports.

Mr. MacDonald said the press reports of a potential jobless cut to 3.3 per cent are "gross interpretation . . . tantamount to comparing apples with oranges."

"They overlooked the fact that many moonlighting jobs are in areas where unemployment is slight or non-existent."

"For example, the figures show that the incidence of moonlighting was highest among people living in the Prairie provinces, accounting for 4.3 of all employed workers. But Quebec, with a much higher rate of unemployment, has a moonlighting rate of only 2.5 per cent."

The Atlantic provinces, another high-jobless area, had a moonlighting rate of only 2.8 per cent.

He said the news reports also ignored the "very strong possibility that most of these moonlighting jobs would be for a comparatively few paid hours and not for a full-time paid occupation."

IN VIETNAM

Escalation Cost 94 Men

SIAGON (AP) — The United States command reported today that 94 U.S. airmen have been lost in North Vietnam since the sharp escalation of the U.S. air war against the North last March 30.

The toll increased to 94 with the delayed announcement that three flyers and two F-4 Phantoms were lost last Saturday and Sunday. One man was rescued.

A total of 84 U.S. jets have been downed in North Vietnam since March 30, the U.S. command said.

More than 100 miles to the south of Quang Tri, fighting appeared to have tapered off in the battle for the Que Son Valley, but there was no indication that the North Vietnamese who control most of it were pulling out.

A series of small shelling attacks was reported in the Saigon region. Highway One about 25 miles east of the capital was reopened after the Viet Cong blocked traffic with dirt barricades that were booby-trapped.

The many delights of B.C. MUSHROOMS

B.C. Mushrooms are an incredibly versatile delight. They can be fried, creamed or stewed . . . whole, sliced or minced . . . alone or as part of an endless variety of hot dishes. They can be savored raw, too, in salads and hors d'oeuvres. In fact, the ways to enjoy mushrooms are almost too numerous to list. And here in B.C., we're in the midst of one of the continent's finest mushroom-growing areas. So popular is this delicate food that British Columbians consume more mushrooms than any people anywhere (about 3 lbs. per capita, the highest figure in the world). Another surprising fact: Mushrooms are British Columbia's second most valuable vegetable crop, exceeded in value only by potatoes. HAPPILY displaying their first place gold medal is the Kelowna Ogoopgo Swim Club's 11-12 girls' relay team who finished in top spot in the reestyle and medley relays at the B.C. Summer Swimming Association finals held in Vancouver during the weekend. From left to right, Janice Ramsell, Jo-Anne Ritchie, Michele Tooley and Sheryl Ramsell also set a new record in the medley relay. The Ogoopgo club finished in sixth place out of the more than 50 clubs represented with a total of 82 points. See story below.

Sixth Place For Swim Club

Kelowna's Ogoopgo Swim Club made all their summer practising pay off during the weekend as they swam to an eighth place finish in the B.C. Summer Swim Club finals held at UBC's Empire Pool in Vancouver.

More than 50 clubs from various parts of the province competed, with the Kelowna club picking up 82 points compared to last year's 33 points and sixteenth place finish.

The club was led by an outstanding performance by the girls' 11-12 relay team—Michele Tooley, Jo-Anne Ritchie, Sheryl Ramsell and Janice Ramsell—who picked up a first place gold medal in both the free style and medley relays. The girls went one step further by breaking the old medley relay record of 2:36.5 with a time of 2:34.8, and beat their closest competitor, North Shore, by more than two lengths.

Sheryl Ramsell was also exceptional in the individual 200 medley picking up a gold medal and setting a new record of 3:02.5, which was held by Mary-Beth Rondeau, who is currently competing in Munich with the Canadian swimming club at the Olympics.

Other Ogoopgo swimmers to collect medals included Jo-Anne Ritchie with a second place silver in the 11-12 girls' 50 metre breaststroke, and Trent Edwards with a third place bronze in the boys' 8 and under 50 metre breaststroke. Miss Ritchie also had a fourth in the 200 individual medley and a fifth in the 100 metre freestyle to make her runner-up in the 11-12 girls' aggregate award.

One of the two Kelowna divers to compete in the provincial finals, Gary Athans, put on a courageous exhibition in picking up a gold medal in the boys' 10-11 diving competitions. Athans hit the board during one of his dives and suffered bruises to his head and leg. He continued with the competitions and performed brilliantly in picking up the first place.

The Ontario squad's team score was 239 over the par-74 6,075-yard Saskatoon Golf and Country Club layout.

Alberta was in second position with 258.

The British Columbia team, favorites going into the first round and defending seniors champions, were in third place after the first 18 holes of medal play with 262.

The golfers played in temperatures ranging up to 93 degrees with no wind.

The second and final 18 holes of play are set for today.

TILlicum RACEWAYS Visiting Cars Don't Show Stock Car Races Shortened

Super modifieds from the Washington Racing Association and Prince George were scheduled to take part in Saturday night's stock car action at Tillicum Raceways, but for some unknown reason, failed to show up.

Fans who took in the racing saw somewhat limited action due to the lack of cars, however the management and the owners of Tillicum Raceways provided a little bonus for those fans. Each person was issued a rain-check that will enable them to take in any race this season for half of the regular cost.

The first race of the evening was the slow trophy dash, which had to be re-started after Jack Cross of Langley, driving Pete Smir's car from Kelowna, collided with Gil Gillette, who was driving Jim Cordick's car from Kelowna. There was no serious damage, and both cars were back to complete the race. Bob Rayner from Port Coquitlam took the checkered flag and the trophy from trophy girl Nancy Walter of Calgary. Jack Cross was second, and Vernon's Eric Tucker, who has only been competing for a few weeks, placed third.

Eight cars left the starting line in the main event, but it was just one of those nights. After three laps the nose cone on Eric Tucker's car flew off, and a tire along the rear, rattling wall came loose and rolled across the track amongst the drivers. The red flag went up, and the race was re-started. After 16 laps Tucker came out of the number two corner, snapped a front axle, and hit the ditch in a cloud of dust. Once again the red flag went up and the race was re-started.

Spitz Takes Third Gold Goes For Olympic Record

By BRUCE LEVETT

CANADIAN PRESS Sports Editor
MUNICH (CP) — Mark Spitz broke his third world record in the Olympic pool Tuesday, towelled himself dry and said: "I'm afraid of everything."

Four years ago, as a brash 18-year-old, the California-born swimmer went to Mexico City announcing that he intended to win four individual gold medals and emerged with a second-place silver, a third-place bronze, two golds in relay events and a powerful incentive to do better in 1972.

Today, needing one more victory to match the four achieved by Don Schollander of the United States in 1964, the current Olympic swimming high, he still has a shot at an unprecedented bag of seven golds, a total that has been reached by gymnasts but has not been approached by any other athlete.

While Spitz tucked away the 200-metre freestyle title along with his previous victories in the 100-metre butterfly and as a member of the U.S. 400-metre freestyle relay team, all in world-record times, two American girls threw a roadblock in the way of Shane Gould, the Australian 15-year-old who was expected to make similar progress through the women's events.

FINISH WAS CLOSE
Sandra Nelson and Shirley Babashoff touched barely ahead of the 15-year-old Australian in the 100-metre freestyle, which Shane was trying to add to the 200-metre individual medley she won on Monday's opening swimming program.

Her team-mate, 15-year-old Beverly Whitfield, turned the tables with a victory in the women's 200-metre breaststroke and Roll and Matthes of East Germany won the men's 100-metre backstroke in the only other swimming finals of the night.

Canadians continued to improve on their previous performances but Tuesday's only finalist was Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C., a 24-year-old veteran of two previous Olympics, who finished eighth and last in the 200-metre freestyle after breaking his own Canadian record in the heats.

The world record in the men's 100-metre breaststroke failed to survive the semi-finals of the event. Going into tonight's final, it belonged to Nobutaka Taguchi of Japan after John Hencken of the U.S. held it briefly at the end of the first semi-final heat.

Bill Mahoney of New Westminster, B.C., who broke the Canadian record in his heat and broke it again in his semi-final, was unable to qualify.

SPITZ HAS DAY OFF
Spitz will give the record-keepers a rest until Thursday, when he goes in the 100-metre butterfly and the 800-metre freestyle relay. If his streak is still alive, he can prolong it in Sunday's 100 freestyle and finish it off in the 400 medley relay on Monday's final swimming card.

Thanks mainly to his swimmers and divers, the U.S. team maintained its lead in the Olympic medal table with five gold, six silver and four bronze. East Germany was second with three, two and four, while Russia moved into third place with its second gold medal—in the 100-kilometre team cycling time trial—to go with three silver and two bronze.

In the unofficial point standings, based on a 10-5-4-3-2-1 count for the first six placings in final events, the Americans had 114 points to 71 for East Germany and 45 for Russia. Canada, unable to pick up points Tuesday, had a 16th-place total of six.

Italy broke into the medal table with a gold and bronze in trapshooting. Angelo Scalzone won the event and broke a world record by shattering 199 of his 200 targets in the three-day competition.

WHERE YOUR MONEY GOES WHEN YOU BUY A VOLVO.

When you first look at a Volvo, it's hard to see why it costs over $4000. For that kind of money you expect a big car. And since Volvo is shorter and more maneuverable than a Chevy Nova, you wouldn't expect it to have more front seat legroom than a Cadillac. More rear seat legroom than a Buick Electra. And a bigger trunk than a Lincoln Continental. But it does.

You can't appreciate how comfortable a Volvo is until you sit in it. Our fully-reclining bucket seats come with an adjustable lumbar support to make the seat backs firmer or softer. This costs money. But it can save you a lot of agony on a long trip.

When you have to come to a panic stop, you'll realize the value of Volvo's brakes. Some cars give you two disc brakes as an extra. Volvo gives you four-wheel power disc brakes as standard equipment.

Volvo also comes with a dual circuit braking system that has three wheels on each circuit. If one circuit fails, you still have 80% of your braking power.

One of our strongest selling points is our body. But you can't tell how strong it is by looking. Not until you see seven Volvos stacked on top of each other. And the one on the bottom holding up. Which it will.

Volvo's front and rear ends are another story. They're energy absorbing—designed to crumple under stress and absorb impact in case of a collision.

Of course, there are some things that will catch your eye when you look at a Volvo. Tinted glass is standard. Whitewalls, standard. Carpeting front and rear, standard. Rear window defroster, standard.

What all this adds up to is a car that's far from standard.

Tiant Top Righthander Says Chicago Manager

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Meet Mr. Excitement of 1972—Luis Tiant. "I think that he's as good as any righthander in the American League right now," said Chicago manager Chuck Tanner after Tiant pitched Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory over White Sox Tuesday night.

Tiant recorded his third straight shutout and fifth straight victory with a five-hitter. In his last five starts—all complete games, Tiant, 34, has allowed just five earned runs, two hits and six walks while striking out 37 batters in that time.

Tiant's latest triumph kept the Red Sox three games behind the leaders in the East Division race.

BIRDS CLOSE RANKS
Baltimore Orioles trounced Minnesota Twins 9-4 and pulled into a first-place tie with Detroit after the Tigers lost 3-1 to California Angels.

Barr's 41 Consecutive Outs Breaks Major League Record

National League batters have had their ups and downs lately with San Francisco's Jim Barr. Up they come and down they go.

The 24-year-old Giants' righthander, who pitched a two-hitter against Pittsburgh Pirates last week for his first major league shutout and retired the last 21 batters, mowed down the first 20 St. Louis hitters Tuesday night before Bernie Carbo broke the spell with a clean double and finished with a three-hit, 3-0 victory over the Cardinals.

The string of 41 consecutive outs broke the major league baseball mark of 38 set by Pittsburgh's Harvey Haddix in 1959, 38 of those coming in his memorable 12 perfect innings against Milwaukee Braves. Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal Expos nipped Atlanta Braves 4-3, New York Mets blanked Cincinnati Reds 3-0, Houston Astros edged Philadelphia Phillies 2-1, Chicago Cubs downed Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 and Pittsburgh slugged San Diego Padres 5-1.

BARR A STARTER
Barr, who made 24 relief appearances before getting a start this season, "has earned full-time status as a starter," says Giants' manager Charlie Fox. Reggie Cleveland of the Cards matched Barr's scoreless hurling until the ninth when Dave Kingman drove in all three runs off the Swift Current, Sask., native with a bases-loaded double following an error by third baseman Dwain Anderson, a hit batsman, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Dave Rader.

Ken Singleton hit two solo homers in Montreal's triumph over Atlanta. Hank Aaron hit his 665th career homer and Earl Williams also connected for the Braves.

LEO HOLDS STREAK
Houston made it two in a row under Leo Durocher's leadership when Lee May greeted Philadelphia reliever Mac Scarce with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning.

The Astros picked up a game on Cincinnati, which played dead against New York's Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw, and trail the Reds by 7½ games in the West Division. Loser Jack Billingham had his scoreless streak ended at 24 innings when Ken Boswell and Ed Kranepool homered in the fourth.

Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell increased his major league-leading RBI total to 101 with his 31st home run and a sacrifice fly which drove in the go-ahead run in the third inning.

Billy Williams accounted for both Chicago runs with a sixth-inning double and Milt Pappas scattered eight hits, including Willie Davis' third-inning homer, as the Cubs edged the Dodgers.

Canada's Draw With U.S. Increases Soccer Chances

BALTIMORE (CP-AP) — Canada increased its chances of getting past the first round of the World Cup soccer playoffs by tying the United States 2-2 in Group 1 action Tuesday night.

Canada earlier defeated the United States 3-2 in St. John's, Nfld., Mexico defeated Canada 1-0 earlier this month.

John Douglass scored with 9:10 left in the game to give Canada the deadlock.

"I think we had it wrapped up," said Bob Kehoe, the U.S. coach. "And then that easy goal tied us."

Ike Mackey drilled a ball through Ortes Banach's legs from 10 yards out to open the scoring early in the game for Canada.

The U.S. tied it six minutes later as Willie Roy banged home a goal on a feed from Jorge Benitez after Canadian goalie Dick Howard slipped and fell.

Canada had a chance to go into the lead with 24 minutes left in the first half but Douglass's head shot hit the right post.

Roy set up the go-ahead tally for the U.S. with just under 21 minutes left in the first 45 minutes of play on an assist to Gene Geimer giving the U.S. a 2-1 lead until Douglass's tying goal in the final minutes of play.

"The U.S. played very well," said Canada coach Frank Pike. "If we had lost we would have been in trouble. We did a very good job in coming back and gaining the tie."

BOMBERS VS ESKS

Old Room-Mates Tangle As 'Peg Tries For First

WINNIPEG (CP) — Don Jonas and Tom Wilkinson, room-mates on the road when they shared quarterbacking duties in 1970 for Toronto Argonauts, face each other as rivals tonight in a Western Football Conference game.

Jonas hopes to lead Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a victory over Edmonton Eskimos that would leave the teams deadlocked for first place with four wins and a loss each. Wilkinson would rather he didn't.

Eskimos, undefeated in four games this season, have a 9-0 record extending through the latter part of 1971 and have jumped from feeblest to strongest-scoring team in the conference.

Jonas, who left Toronto for Winnipeg and became 1971's most valuable player in the Canadian Football League, has a healthy respect for Wilkinson, who will be calling his second consecutive game for Edmonton.

"He's always been a smart quarterback," said Jonas. "I know how dedicated he is, because we used to spend hours going over films together. What's held Tom back is he's never really had the opportu-ity... there's always been somebody else. "Now he's with the right club, with the right attitude and the right type of coaching staff. I think he has something to prove to people, just like I did when I came to Winnipeg."

INJURED WITH LIONS
Jonas and Wilkinson left Toronto when Argonauts picked up Joe Theismann and Greg Barton. Wilkinson's next stop was British Columbia Lions, where he quickly suffered a knee injury that sidelined him for the season.

Eskimo head coach Ray Jauch said Bruce Lemmerman, whose shoulder separation sent Edmonton hunting for Wilkinson, is expected to be back in action by October. Asked who will be Eskimos' No. 1 quarterback when Lemmerman returns to action, Jauch said: "We'll just see what position we're in at that time."

Jauch praised Mack Herron, the hard-charging fullback who is the WFC's leading scorer with seven touchdowns. "He's done a great job for Winnipeg," Jauch said. Edmonton's running combination of fullback Sam Scarber and halfback Gene Foster is a tough threat too, because both can run well to the inside or outside.

ESKIMOS TOUGHER

Bomber head coach Jim Spavital said Scarber and Foster "can ram the ball down your throat.... Eskimos are better offensively than the Argos andStampeders."

Defensively, Eskimos will be without Greg Pipes, the outstanding lineman in the WFC in 1970. The veteran tackle, on the

Cahill Not Panicking Yet Argos Try For First Win

OTTAWA (CP) — Rested and ready, Ottawa Rough Riders take on their traditional foes from Toronto in Eastern Football Conference action today, eager to deal yet another blow to the winless Argonauts.

But if Toronto coach Leo Cahill is worried about his team's losing streak, he's not showing it. They've lost all four regular season games.

"I'm not prepared to panic," Cahill told a news conference here Tuesday night.

"And I'm definitely not afraid of losing my job," He told reporters curtly that there was "nothing" wrong with the Argos, aside from the fact that they lost 10 players from last year's roster.

But with his star quarterback Joe Theismann out for another month with injuries, Cahill probably has some quiet worries about the formidable Rider machine which has already beaten the Argos twice this year, once in pre-season play by a whopping 51-7.

Ottawa is undefeated in three starts this year, but Coach Jack Gotta is not making overconfident noises about prospects today.

He says he's concerned that his Riders may be a little "stale" after their 10-day break and that they may have trouble keeping the momentum that has put them at the top of the EFC.

As well, he says the two new quarterbacks that Toronto will play, Wally Gabler and Jim Chaisey, have played against Ottawa before "and have an idea of what we do."

"Both of them are mobile too, and we are making preparations to handle that."

We'll Win Again Claims Premier

RUTLAND (Staff) — People in B.C. want the Social Credit party to win again, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Tuesday. Bubbling over with confidence as usual, the man who has represented South Okanagan in the legislature for about 30 years paid his only visit to this riding during the campaign. He chatted informally with about 25 supporters Tuesday afternoon at the Sacred committee rooms in Rutland.

"I've been all over this province in the last two months. I've never seen it looking so beautiful, or the people so prosperous," he said.

He said there are still things the Socreds want to do.

"The opposition never criticizes the same thing for two elections running. They have never been in power, so they can promise anything."

He dismissed the heckling at several campaign meetings he attended in various parts of B.C. by saying, "Hecklers make a meeting."

Mr. Bennett repeated comments about his age and the possibility of a new Socred leader.

"Who's getting older? I feel younger than I did 20 years ago," he said.

"The Conservatives, Liberals and NDP have all gone new leaders, and will get new ones after the election, but the Social Credit party has had the same one for 20 years, and will not get a new one."

Asked further about the leadership question, the premier said, "Phil loves to talk," referring to comments by rehabilitation minister and Kamloops MLA Phil Gagliardi the premier would step down after the election, and Mr. Gagliardi would like his job. The latter claims he was misquoted.

"There are advantages to having your MLA as premier, but there are also disadvantages. As party leader, I have to be all over the province during election time. But the business of government must continue, election or no election."

The premier also spoke of the need to work together so Rutland will grow properly. He mentioned the Green Belt Protection Fund, under which the government will buy good farmland and rent it back to farmers. A group of farmers along the Old Vernon Road have applied to have their lands bought out of this fund.

He joked with W. C. Bennett, chairman of the Regional District of Central Okanagan, but no relative. "You take a lot of criticism for me," said the premier.

Local Socreds were commended for "the nicest committee rooms in the province." Noting the feminine majority, the premier said, "Women do all the work."

Golden Chance 'Being Wasted'

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian mining industry is apparently sitting on gold mines while their United States counterparts are taking full advantage of techniques developed by Canadian experts, Alastair Gillespie, federal minister for science and technology said here.

Mr. Gillespie told the 24th International Geological Congress here that "one is forced to the painfully obvious conclusion that golden opportunities are being wasted here."

Most existing reserves in the Canadian mining industry were discovered through traditional surface surveying, he added.

Mr. Gillespie said it's known that many deposits are hidden thousands of feet under the surface, although most techniques used in Canada only penetrate a few hundred feet below ground. Relatively little geophysical equipment is produced in Canada and most Canadian innovations have been brought into production outside the country primarily in the U.S., he added.

Fall Fair Committee Meets To Discuss Fair Schedule

PEACHLAND (Special) — Last minute arrangements for the Peachland 55th annual Fall Fair to be held on Sept. 8, were made at Monday night's meeting of the fair committee held in the committee room at the Centennial Hall.

Reports were given by secretary, Mrs. Don Cousins, on the fair list distribution being done by mail this year. The need for more fair small equipment was suggested.

Committees heard from Mrs. Garry Topham director of the junior section, who requested more space for her department this year as the entries in the junior A and junior B sections have increased 10 times over in the last few years.

Mrs. Don Houghtaling reported the need for a new director on the flower section as Mrs. M. J. Bader will be unable to be present fair day. Mrs. A. Scarbo was appointed to the position.

It was brought to the committee's attention that with the new Mrs. W. D. Miller Trophy now for competition in the rug section, many more entries in this section can be expected and more space will have to be set aside. Dr. R. D. Mitchell and H. J. Williamson will be in charge of setting up the hall Wednesday evening and will make note of these special needs. Members of the Peachland Chamber will assist with this setting up.

The judges' lunch and refreshments were also discussed. Mrs. John Milroy will take over the catering for the lunch and local ladies have offered help to serve tea in the centennial room from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

A fair raffle was set up and the door prize will be a pottery article from Okanagan Pottery Studios. Some prizes have not yet been received the secretary informed the committee. Members will contact donors within the next few days on this.

Simla Pact Preserved

NEW DELHI (AP)— Indian and Pakistani officials ended five days of talks today after reaching an agreement to preserve the Simla pact signed in July by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

Ashtul Sahal, director-general of the Pakistani foreign ministry, told reporters the agreement is a step in a contribution in the right direction.

Asked if he thought it would serve durable peace in the subcontinent, he said "Yes, it will."

Sahal said no date had been set for the next meeting between India and Pakistani officials.

The Simla pact was signed in an effort to settle disputes stemming from the Indian-Pakistani war over Bangladesh in December.

Labor Day Toll May Be 680 In U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)— The National Safety Council estimates there will be from 380 to 680 traffic fatalities across the United States during the U.S. Labor Day weekend, Sept. 1-3.

The council also estimated that between 21,000 and 27,000 people may be injured during the three-day holiday.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

She's Had Boils For 4 Years Now

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For about four years I have been having boils in my armpits. My doctor gives me penicillin and tells me to use hot compresses. Meantime I suffer at least a week until it comes to a head and releases pus. I get boils at least six times a year.

Please tell me what to do. I am in good health otherwise except I have allergies.—Mrs. P.B.

Boils, a misery, infamous back to the time of Job! The armpit and nape of the neck are common sites for recurring boils, and seldom is there a quick and easy way to stop them. This isn't to say they can't be stopped, but it takes some doing.

Some folks are staph carriers, meaning that they carry the common staphylococcus germ usually in the nose and often around the groin and genital area as well as in the armpits.

The staph germ can hang around without doing any visible damage until it manages to establish a colony in a pore, or in some insignificant break in the skin, and set up an infection. That's a boil.

Basic task in avoiding boils, when they are recurrent, is scrupulous cleanliness. Underarms should be kept shaved. The area should be washed with an antiseptic soap or solution. These usually contain hexachlorophene, so the areas should be thoroughly rinsed afterward.

Then an antiperspirant should be used, because it is important to keep moisture at a minimum—moisture encourages the staph germ. (A patient with allergies may have to take pains to choose an anti-perspirant that doesn't touch off allergic reactions.)

If penicillin doesn't happen to be sufficiently effective with a given strain of the germ, a laboratory can make cultures of pus from a boil and sensitivity tests can indicate other antibiotics that will act more vigorously. In stubborn cases it can be worth the trouble to do this.

Once a boil appears, antibiotics, heat, and finally drainage of the boil are all that can be done. The real battle is in preventing the boils from appearing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My tongue has been split for at least five months and will not heal. Is there anything you could recommend? I have used mouthwash, salt and water, even peroxide.—E.B.F.

Some tongues have deep fissures (cracks) normally. These can accumulate food particles which provoke irritation.

Sensitivity to certain foods can cause trouble, too. I have in mind a patient who had trouble after eating walnuts. So pay attention to what you eat, usually some rather unusual food, prior to the splitting.

If your tongue has normally deep fissures or cracks, mouthwashes or brushing of the tongue with a soft toothbrush to clear the crevices may help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: It is very important that you answer this letter in your column as soon as possible. My brother is going to be operated on for trouble with his prostate gland.

What I would like to know is will his sex drive stop? He is going through such mental torture. I'm too embarrassed to ask his doctor.—M.R.

Depends on the type of surgery that is required. For the majority, sexual capability is about the same after the operation as it was before.

If you're too embarrassed to ask the doctor, and he is having such mental torture, why doesn't he ask the doctor? Sounds like the simplest way.

Opening lead—three of diamonds.

A fine declarer does everything he can to avoid, or at least postpone, a two-way guess for a queen. He hopes something will happen along the way that will enable him to avoid the guess.

Here is a typical situation where West leads a diamond and declarer sees that his potential losers are two spades, a diamond and a trump. The trump loser seems to depend on guessing the location of the queen, which is finessable, but

South has no idea at the start where the diamond is located. He postpones a confrontation with the issue by ducking the diamond, winning the return with the ace, ruffing a diamond with the nine, cashing the A-K of clubs and ruffing a club in his hand to produce this position:

North

♠ J 6 5

♦ K 9 6 5
♣ Q 10 7 2

Now declarer plays the A-x of spades, hoping a favorable situation will develop. As it happens, West wins with the king and, let's say, returns the queen of diamonds. Declarer ruffs with the king, discarding his ten of spades, and though he later loses a trump trick he makes the contract.

But note that West can defeat the contract by returning a low trump in the diagrammed position. South wins with the eight, returns to dummy with a trump, but is then forced to lead a spade. East takes the jack, West shedding a club, and West scores the setting trick with the queen of trumps when East leads the queen of clubs.

Fires Flare In California

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fire fighters raced through northern and central California forests in an effort to snuff out more than 200 lightning-sparked fires while 1,200 men hoped today to close the final link in a 28-mile fire line and thereby contain a week-old fire in the Los Padres National Forest.

The U.S. forest service said about 100 of the patchy fires erupted Monday within a 300-mile arc of the Stanislaus National Forest near the Oregon border following severe thunderstorms in the region.

Fifty-two fires broke out in the Sierra National Forest northeast of Fresno and 10 in the Sequoia National Forest.

The fires ranged in size from less than an acre to nearly 10 acres and were burning brush and timber, he said.

Another 25 fires flared up on private timberland in northern counties as a result of lightning strikes, a spokesman said.

About 150 fire fighters were trying to keep up with the fires, 80 per cent of which were expected to be contained by tonight.

3. MARRIAGES

PLUMPTON — ATCHISON: Mr. and Mrs. Derek Plumpton of Kelowna are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Susan Lynn, to Rory Gene Trenton Atchison, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Atchison of Surrey, B.C. The wedding will take place October 7th at St. Paul's United Church, Kelowna.

5. IN MEMORIAM

CADDEN — In loving memory of my mother, Iris Lillian Cadden, who passed away August 30th, 1970.
So many things have happened since you were called away.
So many things to share with you had you been left to stay.
Every day in a small way memories of you come our way.
Through absent, you are ever near.
Still missed, loved, always dear.
Ever remembered by her daughter, Shelley.

CADDEN — In loving memory of my dear friend, Iris Lillian Cadden, who passed away August 30th, 1970.
A heart of Gold stopped beating.
Hard working hands at rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us He only takes the best.
The leaves and flowers may wither, but the hearts that loved so dearly, are the ones that won't forget.
Always remembered and missed by Fred Kabatoff.

CADDEN — In loving memory of our dear sister-in-law, Iris Lillian Cadden, who passed away August 30th, 1970.
You are never far from our hearts.
Nor ever will you be.
As long as life and memory last, we will remember you.
Don, Ellen and family.

U.S. Ships, With 'An Assist' Sink 2 Red Torpedo Boats

SAIGON (AP) — American ships with an assist from a U.S. Navy plane sank two north Vietnamese torpedo boats off Haiphong Sunday night during a raid on the North Vietnamese coast, the U.S. command announced Tuesday.

The cruisers Newport News and Providence and the destroyers Rowan and Robison conducted the "daring raid into strongly defended enemy territory," the command said.

The ships shelled a fuel depot two miles southeast of Haiphong, a barracks 11 miles to the southeast and coastal defence installations.

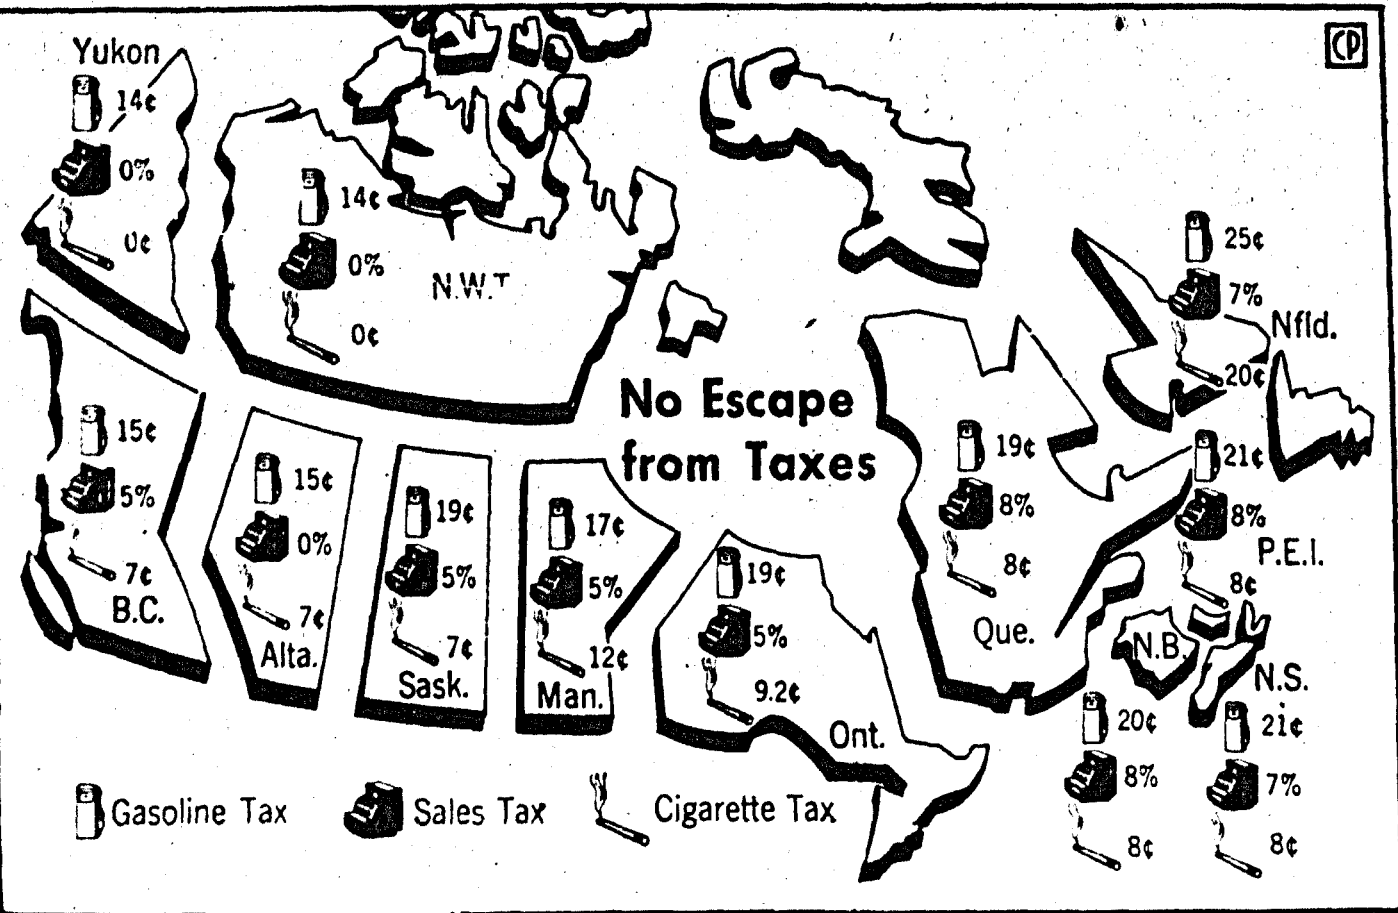

The high-speed, 85-foot torpedo boats appeared as the Newport News and Rowan were withdrawing from the attack on a petroleum dump and other shore targets, the navy said. The two American ships opened fire and a direct hit from the Newport News destroyed one of the craft. The Rowan's guns set the other afire, and a navy A-7 Corsair finished it off with bombs.

Meanwhile the Robison duelled with North Vietnamese coastal batteries and the destroyer took shrapnel on its bridge from a near miss but was not damaged, the navy said.

The raid against the coastal installations was the second such foray carried out by the two cruisers and a pair of destroyers. The first was on May 9, the day U.S. mines were planted in North Vietnam's harbors and coastal inlets for the first time.

WHAT YOU ALREADY KNEW

There's no escape from taxes, but go west and north if you want relief from high gasoline, sales and cigarette taxes. CCH Canada Ltd., which keeps tabs on tax and business law, reports the lowest rates of sales and excise taxes prevail in Alberta, British Columbia, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, while the highest rates occur in the Atlantic Provinces. The highest general sales taxes are in Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Quebec, and the lowest in Alberta, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, which have no sales tax at the provincial or territorial level. Gasoline taxes are highest in Newfoundland, which also has the highest cigarette tax. (CP Newsmag)

Sinden Worrying About 'Poise' And Team Canada's Emotions

TORONTO (CP) — Right now Larry Sinden is worried more about "poise" than conditioning Team Canada for its forthcoming exhibition hockey series with the Soviet Union.

Sinden, general manager of the National Hockey League players who will meet the Russians in an eight-game series starting Saturday at Montreal, said Monday: "I hope we don't get so high that we're emotionally stupid, we could forget to put the puck in the net."

Sinden, who played the Russians in 1958 as captain of Whitby Duplons, said he recalled the final game at Oslo, Norway, when the Canadians needed two third-period goals to stop Russia 4-2 and win Canada's last world title.

"These Team Canada players are more poised and mature than we were. But under the pressure of what winning the series means to Canada there might be a tendency to lose some poise. When that happens, you lose some of your ability."

PLAY TONIGHT
Sinden, who picked up Boston Bruins from the depths of the NHL and led them to a league title in four years in 1970, readily admits winning "the Stanley Cup doesn't compare to this emotionally."

The third and final intramural game, featuring Sinden's Whites and assistant coach John Ferguson's Reds, is set for tonight at Maple Leaf Gardens. The Whites took both earlier games by scores of 8-5 and 4-2.

Television rights for all three warm-up games were sold to a Toronto cable television company for broadcast on a delayed basis.

One face of the Team Canada camp has been the lack of spirited fencing between players from different teams who normally contrive to manacle each other during the regular NHL season.

"The players know they have a big job to do and a short time to accomplish it," says Sinden. "They've allowed nothing to interfere with that."

ORR IMPROVING
Team Canada learned Monday night that Bobby Orr has been given clearance to scrimmage as soon as his ailing left knee is ready.

Ferguson, earlier in the day, said the young Boston defenseman, the NHL's most valuable player the last three seasons, would probably get into his first game against the Russians in Vancouver.

Orr, after meeting with Bruins' medical advisers, said he hoped to begin scrimmaging with the team next week but doubted he would play in any of the Canadian games.

After Montreal, the Canada-Russia hockey series moves to Toronto on Sept. 4; Winnipeg, Sept. 6 and Vancouver, Sept. 8. The Russian portion of the series, scheduled for Sept. 22, 24, 26 and 28, will be played in Moscow.

Something To Bark About Now; Will Gives Dogs $14 Million

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Eighty-one stray dogs have inherited about $14 million from the estate of their late spinster mistress.

The will of Eleanor Ritchey, heir to the Quaker State Refining Corp., was finally settled here in Broward County Court after years of litigation.

Miss Ritchey, who died Oct. 14, 1968, at the age of 58, left her then $4.5 million estate to 150 stray dogs.

Her will was contested by a handful of relatives who were not mentioned in it.

Meanwhile, 69 of the dogs have died but assets of the estate, mostly invested in Quaker State stock, have grown to about $18 million. Miss Ritchey was the granddaughter of Philip Haver, who founded Quaker State.

The dogs that Miss Ritchey had cared for—everything from mutts to pedigrees—now live in an antiseptic, modern canteen on a 180-acre ranch near Deerfield Beach, Fla. Approximately $17,000 is spent each year on the dogs' food and housing, while another $12,000 a year pays for their weekly medical check-ups and treatment of illnesses.

CAN'T MULTIPLY
Tattooed to prove their membership in the original 150, the animals are separated by sex so as to prevent propagation. Accidental offspring would be eligible to receive benefits from the estate.

Lawyers were unable to find actuarial labels for dogs, but it was decided the bequest to the animals would stay in effect until the last dog is dead or for a maximum of 20 years.

After all the canine heirs succumb, the estate is to be passed on to the Auburn Research Foundation, at Auburn University in Alabama, for study of diseases of small animals.

Relatives contended Miss Ritchey "lost touch with reality" because of a lawsuit by her neighbors that forced her to move the dogs in 1967 to their present home. The neighbors had complained of excessive barking and yelping.

Miss Ritchey's two half sisters and two half brothers, who were not included in the original will, have received five per cent each of the final settlement.

The court upheld an original bequest of $4,000 for education of the son of an employee and $5,000 for the employee.

Three cousins and an uncle were left out.

Lawyers' and executors' fees total $700,000.

Hard On Heels Of Controversy A Fence To Be Built At Matsqui

OTTAWA (CP) — A $74,130 contract for construction of an outer perimeter fence for the women's maximum security prison at Matsqui, B.C., was announced today by the department of public works, hard on the heels of controversy surrounding the use of fences in prisons.

The new fence will be constructed by AIM Steel Ltd. of Vancouver and will provide a double fence system at the institution.

The escape of 14 prisoners from Millhaven maximum security prison near Kingston, Ont., July 10—the largest mass escape in Canadian prison history—was achieved when the convicts cut their way through two chain-link fences.

On Aug. 21, six prisoners escaped from the maximum security prison at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary near Montreal by cutting through a wire fence.

Paul Garsion, a spokesman for the Public Service Alliance of Canada, which represents prison employees, blamed the St. Vincent de Paul and other recent escapes from federal prisons on lack of security "due mostly to wire fences which encircle the recreation yards."

Apology Given By Shooter

MUNICH (AP) — The North Korean Shooting Federation has apologized to the president of the International Shooting Union and the host West German Shooting Federation for alleged remarks made by gold medal winner Li Ho Jon.

After Li won the gold medal Monday in the smallbore rifle prone competition, he was reported to have said that North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung told him before leaving home that he should shoot at the targets as though they were his enemies at the front.

Dr. Kurt Hasler of Switzerland, president of the ISU, told reporters at the shooting range today that the North Koreans had apologized to him and the West Germans.

The West Germans had protested to the ISU concerning the remarks.

"In my opinion that is the end of the matter," Hasler said.

Hasler said the captain of the North Korean team told him: "The translation of Li's remarks was not what it should have been. But in any case, if the shooter said something as reported, then the team captain and the team were not in agreement with such a statement."

Li denied Monday that he ever made the remarks attributed to him.

'Slaves' Report To Be Studied

CANBERRA (AP) — Australia's external territories minister will fly soon to the isolated Coos Islands in the Indian Ocean to investigate a report that native Malay workers are paid only $2.20 a week and treated like slaves.

The minister, John Peacock, told Parliament today Australia has absolute sovereignty over the islands but most of the land is owned by John Clunies Ross, a descendant of George Clunies Ross who in 1856 was given a permanent grant by Queen Victoria and was considered king of the island.

"A fundamental reappraisal" of relationships between Clunies Ross and the inhabitants is needed, Peacock said. The minister said his department has a report on the 27 tiny islands more than 1,000 miles northwest of Perth but gave no details.

Officials said the report disclosed that the Malays were not allowed to leave the islands and their minuscule pay was in the form of tokens.

Australia wants to put the islands under its Northern Territories administration but Clunies Ross wants a complete break with Australia, officials said.
